

9239. Bergholm (Alexandra) (ed.), Ritari (Katja) (ed.): Approaches to religion and mythology in Celtic studies / edited by Katia RITARI and Alexandra BERGHOLM.
Newcastle upon Tyne: Cambridge Scholars Publishing, 2008. xvi + 301 pp.
9240. Carey (John): From David to Labraid: sacral kingship and the emergence of monotheism in Israel and Ireland.
In Approaches to religion and mythology in Celtic studies (2008), pp. 2–27.
9241. Downey (Clodagh): Purple reign: the naming of Conall Corc.
In Approaches to religion and mythology in Celtic studies (2008), pp. 27–53.
9242. O'Connor (Ralph): Prophecy, storytelling and the otherworld in Togail bruidne Da Derga.
In Approaches to religion and mythology in Celtic studies (2008), pp. 55–68.
9243. Borsje (Jacqueline): Druids, deer and “words of power”: coming to terms with evil in medieval Ireland.
In Approaches to religion and mythology in Celtic studies (2008), pp. 122–149.
9244. Sjöblom (Tom): Beyond narratives: taboos as an early Irish custom.
In Approaches to religion and mythology in Celtic studies (2008), pp. 150–177.
9245. Mikhailova (Tatyana A.): Ireland’s “five fifths”: a new look.
In Approaches to religion and mythology in Celtic studies (2008), pp. 192–204.
9246. Latvio (Riita): Neimed: exploring social distinctions and sacredness in early Irish legal sources.
In Approaches to religion and mythology in Celtic studies (2008), pp. 220–242.
9247. Bergholm (Alexandra): “Betwixt and between”: theorising liminality and sacredness in Buile Suibhne.
In Approaches to religion and mythology in Celtic studies (2008), pp. 243–263.
9248. Ritari (Katja): The theology of holiness in early medieval Ireland.
In Approaches to religion and mythology in Celtic studies (2008), pp. 264–291.